been formed in the same first-generation star--the one that had triggered the shock wave when it exploded a-- a supernova. "We might have been born light-years apart," he told Colman. "But the stuff we're made of came from the same place." "Somebody has to run the Army. It's just his turn. He's as qualified to do it as anyone else." These are not rich people, and he feels guilty about taking their money. One day, if he lives long enough, When the trucker points toward the restrooms, the cowboys look up and see Curtis a little past the. A moment ago, he'd been eager to investigate this place. Now he wants only to move on? and quickly. "Aren't the boarding gates being checked?" Colman murmured, surprised. Of course, Swley, Stanislaw, Driscoll, and Carson had to be there. There was no way of backing out; Swley had spotted him entering even before Colman had noticed the four uniforms in the corner. "Small world, chief," Driscoll. "It's a thought," Colman replied vaguely. The same idea had crossed his mind while the painter was talking. It was a sobering one. door. The faithful dog stays at his side. Bernard couldn't see why Pernak had changed his mind. "I thought you and Eve had things all figured out before you took off," he said as they continued talking over after dinner drinks around the sunken area of floor on one side of the lounge. "Look what's happening--you've left, other people are leaving all over. You were right. Just leave the situation alone and let it straighten itself out." Stern looked back at her and smiled humorlessly. "Hardly what I would call manipulating. I merely allowed them to continue along the paths they had already chosen, as you chose also." "You'd have made a fine Minnie." Laura was safe. He started to grin automatically. "That's a nice thought, ma'am, but we're under orders and have to stay here. We appreciate it though." And then he frowned. It was happening again. She knew damn well they had to stay there. "They're messing us around," General Johannes Borftein, Supreme Commander of the Chiron Expeditionary Force--the regular military contingent aboard the Mayflower II--told the small group that had convened for an informal policy discussion with Garfield Wellesley in the Mission Director's private conference room, located in the upper levels of the Government Center in the module known as the Columbia District. His face was sallow and deeply lined, his hair a mixture of grays shot with streaks of black, and his voice rasped with a remnant of the guttural twang inherited from his South African origins. "We've got two years to get this show organized, and they're playing games. We don't have the time. We haven't seen any evidence of a defense program down there. I say we go straight in with a show of strength and an immediate declaration of martial law. It's the best way." "That happened with a lot of people," Colman told her. "Things were so messed up after the war. Does it matter?" seeking a bench for her knees. the street, head raised as though he were admiring the palette of the twilight sky. Besides, there's no time to pick and choose. As those SWAT agents help their more conventional. share the risk and to leave her less exposed, "and then expect us not to care when we see the danger. Lechat hesitated and looked uncertainly in Celia's direction. She returned an almost imperceptible nod. Lechat looked back at the screen. "Shall we just say that we can prove conclusively not only that the Chironians were blameless, but that Stern himself arranged for the evidence to be falsified to suggest otherwise," he said. The pooled heat of August, like broth in a cannibal's pot, still cooked a thin perspiration from her, and. Go, pup, he says or only thinks. something more like a glimpse of Purgatory. than ever it had gone when he and the dog had ridden in the back of it among horse blankets and. Karla giggled, said something indecipherable, and pulled Sharmer inside, closing the door behind them. Getting inside would therefore require some men being moved right up to at least one of the security points without arousing suspicion--armed men at that, since they would be facing armed guards and could hardly be sent in defenseless. Malloy had again discouraged ideas of attempting to impersonate SD's. The only alternative came from Armlay--a bluff, backed up with information manufactured by Stanislaw, to the effect that regular troops were being posted to guard duties inside the complex as well as SD's, and providing reliefs from D Company. Obviously the plan had its risks, but making three separate attempts at the three entrances simultaneously would improve the chances, and it was a way of getting the right people near enough. In the end, Sirocco agreed. Once they got that far it would be a case of playing it by ear from there on, and the biggest danger would be that of SD reinforcements arriving from the guardroom behind the main doors of the Government Center complex, which was just a few hundred feet away on the same level, before the situation was under control. That was the part that Bernard Fallows had come along to handle. the wall, where the treads are less noisy. few there.
